DEUTSCHLAND SAFELY PASSES UNDER ALLIED PATROL

ROGER CASEMENT HANGS TODAY FOR INCITING REVOLT

Degraded Knight Walks Fearlessly to Death in Pentonville After a Sound Night's Sleep

DENIED THE SILKEN ROPE

"I Die for My Country" Are the Last Words of Irishman Whose Capture Preceded Dublin Outbreak

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Roger Casement paid penalty for treason today with his life. He was hanged at Pentonville prison at 9:07 a. m. today. Ten minutes later his body was cut down, life being extinct.

The Irish leader's last words, spoken while he waited fearlessly for the drop to be sprung, were: "I die for my country."

Denied Silken Cord

The Rochdale barber, Ellis, the prison's regular executioner, sprung the drop after he had adjusted the hempen noose—not the "silken cord" which the former knight had hoped up to a few weeks ago would be granted as his instrument of death, in accordance with the ancient privilege granted men of his title.

The hanging was witnessed only by officials of the prison. A large crowd waited outside the grim goal and when the bell tolled announcing the law's satisfaction there were a few cheers intermixed with groans. Several Irish women standing at the rear of the Pentonville jail attempted a demonstration, led by an Irish member of parliament, but were quickly hustled off the scene. It was said Casement went calmly to his death, led by a Catholic priest who administered to him when he retired last night for the last time at 10:30, and when he arose early today. The Irish leader had only recently been converted to Catholicism.

Two Catholic priests, Father Ring and Carey, heard Casement's last confession and administered holy communion to the condemned man. Both accompanied him to the scaffold.

Smiles at Guard

Leaving his cell on the summons to death, the Irishman appeared slightly nervous, but there were no signs of a breakdown and he smiled gravely at his guard, remarking: "It is a beautiful morning."

Several of the Irishmen in the crowd outside the jail fell on their knees and prayed fervently during the tolling of the bell, which announced Casement's death. On the other hand there were a few who waved hats and handkerchiefs.

Last night the guards said Casement spent considerable time in writing but slept soundly.

Casement expected a reprieve and commutation of his sentence up to last night but when darkness came he realized there was no hope. It was said, and without emotion went about setting his affairs in order.

Casement was granted just one boon before his death—and that was permission to wear his own clothes instead of the prison garb to which he objected strongly on his incarceration in the condemned cell. He did not wear a collar. He assisted the executioner in adjusting the noose and pinning his arms and legs.

The government turned a deaf ear to all pleas for commutation of the degraded knight's sentence. Petitions have been pouring in at the home office for weeks. It was in answer to these that Lord Robert Cecil asserted that no doubt existed as to the Irishman's guilt and that the only ground on which commutation could be considered would be political expediency—a difficult ground to put forth in this country.

Sir Roger Casement was arrested on April 22 after having landed on the Irish coast from a German submarine which was conveying a German tramp steamer loaded with arms and ammunition for Irish revolutionists. Two days later the Dublin revolt broke out.

The Irish knight was taken to London and on May 15 charged with "high treason." Casement was held not only to have plotted to overthrow British rule in Ireland through landing of German arms and ammunition and conspiracy with England's enemies, but to have sought, while in Germany, to persuade Irish prisoners there to disavow their allegiance.

The Irish leader was formally degraded from his knighthood immediately after conviction.

A coroner's inquest over the body of Casement, held at 10:30, resulted in the solemn verdict that his death "was due to execution by hanging."

Senators Denounce Britain
WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—"We expect barbarism from barbarism," declared Senator Martine today, excoriating Great Britain for its execution of Roger Casement.

Senator Phelan of California, declared Casement had done nothing to condemn him in the eyes of the world and that the refusal of the crown to reprieve him had been a serious blunder.

RED CROSS CAMPAIGN NOW ON ITS VICTORIOUS WAY TO ITS 1,000 MEMBERSHIP

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS NEEDS YOU! JOIN NOW!

While there has been no checking up of exact results, the progress of the Red Cross campaign on Wednesday was so satisfactory that leaders of the movement are more than ever sanguine over the prospects of securing 1,000 members. One worker reported fifty memberships in a single district, and while this was probably high record for the day, reports from all ward captains are encouraging.

The campaign was resumed Thursday with great vigor, despite delays occasioned by the storm, and aided by the experiences of their first day's work the solicitors are making substantial headway.

An additional captain was added to the list, making twenty-one in all, when Mrs. C. H. Rawlinson was taken from the Eighth ward contingent and made captain of the Twenty-first ward. Ward organizations hitherto unpublished follow:

FIFTH WARD—Mrs. G. W. Lueck, captain; Mrs. Starthem, Miss Lorna Statham.

EIGHTH WARD—Mrs. J. M. Jones, captain; Misses Jane Shick, Beth Keizer, Griselda Rupp, Viola Wallace, Alice Baldwin, Janet Moe.

TENTH WARD—Mrs. H. J. Bullock, captain; Mrs. Earl Wheaton, Misses Alma Snyder, Doris Kent, Doris Kathary, Sibyl Drake.

THIRTEENTH WARD—Miss Alonetta Rose, captain; Misses Marion Dorset, Lola Kemper.

EIGHTEENTH WARD—Mrs. H. E. Wolfe, captain; Miss Leona Yerly.

Brownsville Farmers Are Injured in Smash-up Near Blue Lake

Fred Ripple, 50, and Thomas Graf, 45, Brownsville, Minn., farmers, are at St. Francis hospital with broken right legs, badly bruised bodies and scratched faces, the result of an auto accident near Blue Lake on the La Crosse causeway.

Ripple and Graf had spent Wednesday in La Crosse. Their start home was delayed, and they are said to have speeded up when they crossed the Mississippi wagon bridge and struck Minnesota.

Mrs. O. P. Allen, Blue Lake, just west of West Channel, heard a crash and a series of screams at about 7:30 on Wednesday night. With others she ran from her home to the La Crosse turnpike.

Ripple and Graf were lying under their automobile. They said their machine had skidded off the road. It was badly smashed and jammed against a large tree.

STALWART RECORD IS VINDICATION OF PROGRESSIVES

By Failure to Find Any of the Much-heralded Flaws They Confess Mistake Says Owen

BEST GOVERNED STATE IS DUE HERE SATURDAY

Legislative Achievements That Make Wisconsin Famous All of Progressive Parentage

DELAVAN, Wis., Aug. 3.—"Every fight that has been made in behalf of the people has been made by progressives; every proposal in the interest of the people has been opposed by the stalwarts," said Attorney General Walter C. Owen, in an address before the Delavan Lake assembly here today.

"This is the lineup; these are the two contending views of political thought. The question is: Which shall dominate government?"

Has Been Vindicated

Mr. Owen said that progressive government had been indicted and tried but that it had not been convicted. "It stands before the people of this state with the most splendid vindication that possibly could be accorded," he said. "It stands endorsed and vindicated by those who brought the indictment." Mr. Owen recited the story of the campaign of 1914 when the stalwarts charged that progressive government interfered too much with private business, that there were too many meddling inspectors, too many useless commissions, and that progressive government employs useless and petty officeholders and was responsible for the increasing tax burden.

"But," he said, "the record of the present administration acquits progressive government of every charge made against it in the campaign of 1914. The present administration has preserved all the commissions. It has not interfered with the meddling inspectors. It has not curtailed the number of petty and useless public officials; it has not reduced taxes. Therefore I say progressive government stands before the people of Wisconsin endorsed and vindicated by those who lodged the indictment against it."

Mr. Owen detailed progressive legislative achievements at length and continued:

No Injury to Business
"All this has been accomplished without working injury to any business interest. Prosperity has been the handmaid of justice; bank deposits have grown and grown; corporate capital has multiplied; manufacture and industry have increased, and the bonds of Wisconsin utilities are eagerly sought."

"These achievements have given Wisconsin the reputation of being the best governed state in the union. In all the history of this state no great, comprehensive piece of legislation in the public interest has been suggested by the stalwarts."

W. L. HIXON IS DEAD AT HOME IN MINNEAPOLIS

Brother of Prominent Local Man Dies According to Word Sent Here

F. P. HIXON WITH HIM

J. M. Hixon Has Been Summoned from Plum Lake by His Brother's Death

William L. Hixon of Minneapolis, third of the Hixon brothers, died suddenly at his home this morning of heart failure. The first news of Mr. Hixon's demise was received by W. D. Iden, general manager of the Hixon company here. Mr. Iden immediately notified Mr. J. M. Hixon, who was at Plum Lake and who has started for Minneapolis. F. P. Hixon is in Minneapolis. The dispatch to Mr. Iden was signed by Lloyd Hixon, son of the deceased.

Besides the two brothers in La Crosse, Mr. Hixon leaves two other brothers, George of Chicago, and Robert of Toledo. Both were immediately notified.

Mr. Frank Hixon will arrive here this evening to make arrangements for his brother's funeral, which will be held in La Crosse Saturday.

At the time of his death, Mr. Hixon was a member of the Wellworth Woolen company of Minneapolis.

KINSLOE HONORED BY CHARLOTTE AS HE STARTS WEST

Is Presented with Gift as Token of Esteem When He Leaves for La Crosse

NEW SECRETARY WRITES HE IS IN TOUCH WITH LEADING CIVIC BODIES OF THE COUNTRY

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 3.—(Special.)—In the presence of Congressman Yates and Webb of Washington, and a distinguished body of men from the Charlotte chamber of commerce, James R. Kinsloe, the newly elected secretary of the La Crosse Chamber of Commerce, was given a farewell reception as he boarded a Southern train here on Wednesday night for La Crosse, Wis. He was accompanied on his forty-eight hour ride by Mrs. Kinsloe, her mother and the latter's maid. Mr. Kinsloe was presented with a pair of gold cuff-buttons.

James R. Kinsloe, managing secretary of the La Crosse Chamber of Commerce, will take up his duties here on Monday morning. Mr. Kinsloe will arrive in La Crosse on Saturday, according to a letter received by him here.

Mr. Kinsloe notified over a hundred commercial organizations, in various parts of the United States, of the formation of the local chamber of commerce, and has asked that literature be sent here.

Much to be Learned
"Just as it is given to no individual to know about everything," Mr. Kinsloe writes, "I feel that communities have much to learn from each others' experience. I always try to interest myself in the work of other organizations, and find it helps me to keep a little bit ahead of my own city. The main thing about this is that we have personally acquainted the leading organizations of the country with the splendid work that has just been completed at La Crosse."

Mr. Kinsloe has sent excerpts from letters which he has received in reply. These letters came from Houston, Lafayette, Ind., Buffalo, Superior, Chicago, Mobile, Dayton, New Orleans, Grand Rapids, Peoria, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Reading, Pa., New York, Lincoln, Jacksonville, Atlanta, Baltimore, McKeesport, Asheville, Minneapolis and many other cities.

D. H. McFarland, campaign manager for the Town Development company of New York, who has been in La Crosse two months assisting in the organization of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. McFarland, are preparing to leave for the east Monday night. Mr. McFarland has remained longer than his engagement called for at the request of Mr. Kinsloe and the leaders in the Chamber of Commerce movement.

New Fire Chief Who Was Chosen By Commission

Fred C. McGlathlin, veteran captain of Central station, who succeeds the late Nathan Bradford as head of fire department.

FRED M'GLATHLIN CHOSEN CHIEF OF FIRE DEPARTMENT

Captain of Central Station Is Elevated by Commission to Post Vacated by Chief's Death

IN DEPARTMENT SINCE '91

Captain Since 1904 and Acting Chief Since Nathan Bradford Was Taken Ill

Captain Fred C. McGlathlin, a member of the La Crosse fire department since 1891, was appointed chief of the fire department by the fire and police commission on Wednesday night. Chief McGlathlin succeeds the late Chief Nathan Bradford, member of the department for thirty-three years, at the time of his death, and for seventeen years fire chief.

Chief McGlathlin is spending his annual vacation on a fishing trip at Crosby Point. As far as is known, he has not been apprised of his appointment on Thursday.

Back Tuesday

The new chief will assume his duties on Tuesday morning, when he is expected to return to the city. He has been acting chief of the fire department for several months, during the long illness which led up to the death of Chief Bradford, and since then.

Chief McGlathlin has been considered one of the best fire fighters in La Crosse for many years. Many of the largest fires the city has had recently have been quenched under his direction. The largest blaze which he has been called to combat recently was that which destroyed the old Edison plant of the Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power company, depriving the city of electric power for three days.

He joined the La Crosse volunteer fire department in July, 1891, and was assigned to the central fire station. In October, 1895 he became a full paid fireman, and in January, 1896 he was appointed lieutenant at the central station. On April 17, 1904, McGlathlin was appointed captain of Central station.

Commissioner L. H. Martin was elected secretary of the fire and police commission at last night's meeting, succeeding L. C. Colman, resigned. C. W. Tisdale, the new commissioner, took his seat for the first time.

An examination to select two policemen for vacancies on the force was set for August 16.

PENSACOLA IS LOOKING FOR DIVER BREMEN

PENSACOLA, Fla., Aug. 3.—Belief that the German submarine Bremen will dock here was strengthened today with the presence of several allied warships in the gulf off Pensacola. Also the destroyer Roe is patrolling just inside the three-mile limit. Several tugs are cruising just within the limit off the harbor entrance.

CASE GOES OVER

The case of John Schiffer of the town of Campbell, charged by Elwyn Snyder with assault, was adjourned to August 9 by Judge Brindley this morning.

GERMAN SUB-SEA FREIGHTER DIVES PAST THE GUARD

Slips Out to Edge of the Safety Zone and Disappears Underneath the Water of Atlantic

ENEMIES FIVE MILES OFF

Reports Indicate She Did Not Poke Periscope Out After Sinking Near the Capes

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 3.—Somewhere in the direction of Germany, safely past the allied warship patrol, the submarine merchantman Deutschland is boring her way through the Atlantic toward her home port of Bremen.

Reports coming into Hampton roads indicate the pioneer submarine blockade runner has not poked her periscope above the water since she submerged near the capes last night. At that time the nearest British warship was five miles distant, according to the tug Thomas F. Timmins, which accompanied the Deutschland as far as the capes.

Expectation of a thrilling chase and perhaps some of a fight in connection with the Deutschland's departure was disappointed. Folks on shore saw nothing and sightseers who filled big and little harbor craft saw little more.

In the dark of the night the Deutschland slipped out to the boundary edge of the United States territorial waters ducked under and disappeared. That was all.

British Still Waiting
From Cape Henry came the word long after sun rise that no sign had been seen of the Deutschland. A single disappointed British dog of war lay off Cape Henry light and not another vessel was in sight.

Weather conditions favor the allied patrol, however, not the Deutschland. The cape observer reports a clear sky and only a slight breeze. The submarine's actual submergence was witnessed only by her pilot tug, the Timmins, and those aboard the Timmins were not close enough to be sure they had seen the dive made until wave after wave of the heavy sea had come up and gone down without the submarine's light again showing.

The submergence was made about a mile outside the capes, the Timmins crew reported when they put into Norfolk early today.

Cheers for America
Captain Hinsch of the interned German liner Neckar, who was aboard the Timmins, said the last act of Captain Koenig and his crew before they went below was to give three cheers for America and the American people. This was as they neared the capes. Then all disappeared from the upper structure of the submarine, Captain Koenig being last to descend, shouting a farewell to Captain Hinsch as he disappeared.

"That's the last that will be seen of her until she bobs up in Bremen," declared Captain Hinsch.

It has been understood Captain Koenig planned to work his way along the coast, north or south after submerging, putting into some port if forced to do so by the enemy patrol. He started to drive out into the Atlantic, the moment he was sure the patrol had been avoided.

U. S. Boat Called Back
The United States cruiser North Carolina, assigned to neutrality duty, was ordered in from the capes today, indicating the belief of the government officials, at least, that the danger of neutrality violation has passed.

The Deutschland appeared in the bay, after spending the day in Tangier sound, thirty-five miles up, just about sun-set, and was cutting across toward the capes as darkness began to fall. She was displaying red and green lights close to the water, but soon put these out.

Approaching the Cape Henry lightship the submarine moved in close to shore and held back while the Timmins proceeded some distance out, presumably to determine if hostile vessels were in sight. Presently she signalled and the Deutschland moved on past the capes. This was about 9 o'clock.

The Deutschland came near enough to her pilot to permit the shouting of farewells and the cheering for America and then the rolling water began to pile up between them. She signalled briefly with her periscope light. Then that blinked out and the tug turned back to Norfolk.

PEGGIE

BY ANNA PHILLIPS SEE

Jim Kenny, lineman, went straight home from the Golden Rod saloon—that is, as straight as his uncertain legs would carry him. He knew that if the "boss" at the electric light company should see him he would be "fired." This had been the ultimatum, delivered in strong terms on the occasion of the last offense.

When the lineman entered his comfortable home little Jimmy rushed joyously to embrace his father. At the sudden impact big Jim's equilibrium was overthrown, and he fell helplessly across the dining room couch, where he remained to listen to the inevitable and deserved berating from his wife.

Carrie was as stout as Jim was lean, but her embonpoint was not symbolic of good nature. "Jim Kenny," she cried sharply, "you've been drinkin' again and wastin' your money in the saloon—and me slavin' to get you a nice supper—and me kept waitin' this hour!"

As a matter of fact the supper had been culled from a nearby delicatessen shop, for Mrs. Kenny "cooked with a canopener." Under ordinary circumstances Jim would have reminded her of this fact, but he was too drowsy. So she proceeded: "You're on the job tonight, too. All the wires are down from the storm."

A knock interrupted her, and she opened the door to Dillon and McConway, her husband's mates.

"Come on, Jim," they called. "It's Park Hill tonight." Between them they got him on his feet, forced him to drink a cup of muddy coffee and supported him down the stairs. As the auto-truck whizzed into the suburbs the keen October air cleared his head somewhat. When they reached Park Hill Jim managed to climb a pole, though his long legs in the spiked boots seemed to belong to some one else. For a time habit worked for him; then, without warning, he fumbled, lost his balance, struck out wildly and fell crashing to the ground.

A month later he came from the hospital a cripple, with but one leg. At the electric light company Jim declared firmly that he was through with drink, as indeed he was; but the boss could give him no work.

Then began hard times for the Kennys. In this they were not alone, for thousands found themselves in the same straits. The great war had dealt New York business a mighty blow, and everywhere men were seeking employment.

Jim Kenny had pluck, but no right leg and no "pull." Pull, had he possessed it, would have served him better than two legs or more. For days, weeks and months Jim looked for work, only to find scores of able bodied men clutching at every job. Still, he kept his courage and stumped hopefully about on "Peggie," as he had christened his peg leg.

When no man-size job could be found Jim sold papers to eke out what he received from the charities. At first Carrie made ineffectual attempts to earn money. After a time she did nothing except to upbraid her husband for their misfortunes. Her reproaches he bore patiently, for he had provided for himself a handicap not to be overcome.

On a bitterly cold afternoon he returned tired and hungry to the one room they now occupied. Everything was in disorder. The bed was unmade, the floor un swept. Little Jim was as neglected looking as his surroundings. Carrie sat idly, with her feet on the broken stove.

"Hello, Jimmie," called his father, cheerfully. "Here's Pop and 'Peggie.'"

"How much money've you got?" demanded Carrie.

He pulled some pennies from his pocket. "Only enough for something to eat," he replied, soberly.

She burst into copious tears. "And this is what we've come to with your drinkin' and losin' your leg! I wonder at your jokin' about 'Peggie'—and me without even a nickel for the movies!"

"You had enough to buy this!" Jim retorted, kicking the beer can into a corner. "Don't talk about my drinkin'! I never touch a drop now, and you know it!"

"Well, you did. A one-legged man is no good anyhow. I've a mind to get out!"

The next night when Jim came home he found Jimmie alone and a scrawl from Carrie pinned to the mirror. She had found a place as waitress in a restaurant—where, she did not specify—and she would look out for herself. Jim took his boy on his knee, and for the first time allowed himself to give way to discouragement. How could he manage to be both father and mother?

"If I only had two legs!" he groaned.

As the number of the unemployed increased, the dole from the charities grew smaller and Jim Kenny was forced into the ranks of the "bread line." Even there he had courage to spare for his comrades.

"Well, I never expected to be a 'lineman' again!" became a well-known joke.

Sometimes he lifted "Peggie" high in air, remarking quaintly: "No chil-blains on the foot!" and the quip would draw a laugh from the woeeful line.

At last, the awful winter wore away and May came with balmy days. Hunger is easier borne in warm weather and Jim, with new hope, began to look for a real job. One day he stood near the Strand Theater, on Broadway—a gaunt figure of a man with a wooden leg. His appearance proclaimed him "down," but the spirit in his blue eyes denied that he was "out." He was scanning the brilliant posters of the photoplays when a prosperous-looking stranger tapped him on the shoulder.

"Looking for a job, friend?" he asked.

Jim's glance took in the plaid suit, the purple socks and the flashing diamond ring.

"Sure, I'm lookin'—but—"

"Oh, this job is all right," said the man. "How'd you like to go to the country for awhile and act in a movie play? Five dollars a day and expenses."

"Me?" You mean me?" cried Jim Kenny incredulously.

"Sure! You're what we're looking for—a man with a old-fashioned wooden leg. You see, the play's laid twenty-five years ago. Old farmer with a wooden leg forbids boys to swim in his brook—they do it just the same—farmer comes along and boys hide under a bridge—as farmer stumps across it, kerplunk! his leg goes through a hole—boys grab it and hold him—country fellow comes along with an ax—chops off wooden leg—takes farmer home on load of hay—so forth and so on. You could act it all right. What do you say?"

"I'm your man!" cried Jim eagerly. "How long will you want me?"

"Well, you're in a good many scenes—a month, anyway. That's a hundred and fifty dollars. Some money for a peg-leg, ain't it?"

"A hundred and fifty dollars for a month! Why, I never earned anything like that with two legs!" exclaimed Jim.

"I bet you didn't! Now you've got something other movie actors ain't got. See? If you fill the bill in this play, you'll have chances for others. You might send cards to the different film companies—something snappy, like 'Only Peg-leg in the Business', or—Why, that leg of yours oughter be a regular gold mine, Mr. Kenny—Jim Kenny."

"My name's Levisohn. Well, Mr. Kenny, come to the office on Monday; here's the address and—say—"

"Mr. Levisohn's heart was as warm as his eyes were keen. And, say, Mr. Kenny, here's ten dollars on account. You may want to buy a few things. I know you'll report on Monday."

Jim Kenny's voice was husky as he replied: "Sure we'll be there, Mr. Levisohn—me and 'Peggie!'"

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain deadly poisons. In any quantity, they are, in considerable quantities, to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria purges the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Searchlight

A NEW LIFE PRESERVER A novel life preserver has been devised to supplement the ordinary cork jacket in rough water. By its use the person in distress is able to breathe, even when the waves sweep over his head. The appliance adds to the cork jacket a light metal chamber which floats high, a spout leading from it rising two or three feet above the water level. A tube leads from this chamber to face mask, through which the wearer of the jacket breathes. Even if the water sweeps over his head, the spout of the air chamber is still clear, and the air supply unimpeded.

BURGLARS KILL HOUSEHOLDER

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Frank Ververs, 55, was shot and killed today by burglars, caught in the act of escaping from his home. Ververs was sleeping on the back porch when he heard a noise on the inside. He jumped to his feet and at the same time the back door slammed. As he tried to open the door the robbers fired through the wooden panel. The thieves escaped with $300 worth of jewelry.

The teacher's idea of a high links summer vacation is to start for the woods with seventeen heavy sheep-bound volumes on psychology and child study.

HOW GOVERNOR PHILIPP SAVED (?) $747,000

According to the reports of the state treasurer the net disbursements of state funds for the last two fiscal years were as follows:

1914-15	$15,990,383.49
1915-16	15,243,154.02

Showing a saving (?) of $ 747,229.47

Did he save it by reducing salaries and the number of employees? No, the salaries are higher than ever and there are more people employed. Then how was it accomplished? Read on.

There was more spent for salaries and "operation", but less for the things that endure, land, buildings, repairs, upkeep, etc. In five departments the expenditures for permanent improvements during the last two fiscal years was as follows:

	1914-15	1915-16
Charitable and Penal Institutions	$ 473,205.58	$ 218,487.73
University	451,787.57	299,315.66
Normal Schools	503,628.51	407,508.95
New Capital	755,376.32	708,563.25
State Aid to Highways	1,264,708.40	1,114,403.10
	$3,448,706.38	$2,748,368.69
	2,748,368.60

Which accounts for a saving (?) of $ 700,337.62

There were similar "savings" in lesser amounts in other departments.

Another Saving (?)—There was a "saving" of approximately $146,000 in the common school fund income apportionment. Under a new law this amount will be apportioned later for another purpose. Remember, the fiscal year ends June 30th. This money was "saved" several weeks, lying idle while the localities had to raise the money elsewhere. This also accounts for the unusually large balance in the school fund income. Just think what a chance they missed; they might have saved two million dollars more by not apportioning any of the school money before July 1st.

Governor Philipp was elected in 1914; he made his campaign largely on the plea that the state expenditures for 1913-14 were too high. He said they were almost unbearable and he promised to reduce them. This is how he did it:

State expenditures for 1913-14	$14,368,876.25
State expenditures for 1915-16	15,243,154.02

An increase, notwithstanding the "savings," of $ 874,277.77

THE FUTURE OF THE "STODDARD"

"Good hotels are as much desired features of touring as good roads; with some hotels today the motor trade (in season) represents from fifty to seventy-five per cent of the guests," says a bulletin issued by the publicity bureau of "National Touring Week." The bulletin adds that the excellence of the up-to-date hotels has "given a new thought to the chap who is racking his brain to determine what he is going to do on his motor tour", and that the answer is, "Spend it at our hotel".

However, all the great trade that is attracted by a modern hotel does not come in automobiles, nor all the advertising they send out to herald the virtues of the city go away in automobiles. Discussing the possibilities of the "Stoddard", one of La Crosse's foremost citizens writes the TRIBUNE:

When I first went to — thirty years ago, I was quite surprised to hear comments of people who knew of La Crosse as "the place where we got such a fine meal when going to —". That was all they knew of the place, but it seemed to have left an abiding and pleasant memory. A good hotel building, well kept, is one of the very best general and constant advertisements for any city.

Men who have La Crosse much at heart are thinking a great deal about the Stoddard Hotel these days. They know that it has meant much to La Crosse and that it can mean still more. The late Calvin W. Baker, long its enterprising landlord, had great dreams and aspirations for it, and had formulated plans for its splendid future that were known to financiers and newspaper men who held his confidence. With a lifelong hotel experience, he proposed to make the "Stoddard" second in equipment, arrangement and service to no hotel in the northwest.

And so citizens are awaiting with keen interest the selection of a man of no less ambition and experience than had Mr. Baker, to carry to successful issue the plans he had conceived with admirable foresight and matured with the wisdom of experience.

WATCH THE NOSES OF THE CHILDREN

Now that infantile paralysis is definitely placed in the list of diseases of childhood that run from nose to nose, particular attention is being paid to the child with the snuffles, and now comes the state health instruction bureau with the warning that the child with a "common cold" should be regarded as a "suspicious character". Mumps, measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, tonsillitis, pneumonia and grippe are disseminated through nasal discharges. That's a great burden of guilt to put upon the nose, and one would think them sufficient cause for alarm to awaken caution. But now that the dreaded child paralysis is added to the score, by all means beware of the "common cold" and the running nose, especially as the naughty nose of a child immune from the disease may be a carrier to spread it to other more susceptible children.

Says Dr. Dearholt, director of the bureau, in a recent bulletin:

I wish that I might persuade every parent and teacher to respect the possible danger that lies in "running noses" of childhood. As yet Wisconsin has escaped an epidemic of infantile paralysis this year, but it may come. The other diseases, however, we have in great numbers each year. Our need of preventing them is still greater than preventing infantile paralysis, in spite of publicity the latter disease is now receiving. Every child with a "common cold" who shows any signs of feverishness, who acts listless, whose appetite is poor, is a suspicious character and should be excluded from contact with others. He should be put to bed, for his own sake and for the sake of other children, until his temperature is normal. And yet, one of the most intelligent school teachers I know, spurred by the desire of good attendance records and high scholarship, urged her children not to stay out of school for "common colds". Until she and her kind, and parents, generally, come to have a better appreciation of the relatively greater value of life and health, we shall continue to slaughter and cripple our children by contagious diseases—infantile paralysis among the others.

Taken for all and all, there are about a score of reasons for taking Dr. Dearholt's advice, and each reason is a disease that may destroy the child with the running nose and bring disease and perhaps death to scores of other children. Don't forget the paper napkins for handkerchiefs and the good fire they make, and segregate the child with the "common cold".

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

His Farewell Speech

James H. Wallis, "the fly man of Boise," has made Idaho the most sanitary and the most fly-proof state in the union.

Mr. Wallis, discussing the success with a New York reporter, laughed and said:

"I have succeeded in eradicating the fly by making all Idaho hate the fly, even as poor old Carson hated his wife."

"Poor old Dan lay dying. His wife, melted a little for once, said to Dan:

"You're going, Dan."

"Dan, his eyes closed, made no answer. His wife then repeated, with a sigh:

"Dan, you're going but I'll soon follow you."

"Upon this Dan's glassy orbs opened, and he said in a hollow voice:

"You stay here as long as you can."

Not All Ivory

A man who was called upon to testify in a suit as to the number of cubic yards handled when some rocks were removed showed very little knowledge of the matter, his idea of a cubic yard being so indefinite that it was suspected that he hardly comprehended the term. In order to facilitate his understanding the judge said:

"Listen, witness! Assume this inkstand to be three feet across the top this way and three feet that way and three feet high, what should you call it?"

"Well, your honor," said the witness without hesitation, "I should say it was some inkstand."

Thoughtful Husband

A New Yorker tells of a married couple he observed at a county fair in Ohio. They found themselves in the center of quite a crowd near one of the amusements booths and the husband addressed his wife in this wise:

"I say, dearie, I think you'd better give me the lunch basket. Don't you see, we are apt to lose each other in this crowd?"

THE TRIBUNE'S DAILY TRAVELETTE

(By Nixah)

DRY RUN CREEK

Dry Run Creek (pronounce it crick, please) is an historical stream which meanders occasionally in the vicinity of Peoria, Ill., on its way to the more majestic Kickapoo Creek. The reason it meanders only occasionally is that it hasn't any water in it other times. And that accounts for its name too.

In olden days it was always dry, for then it was an Indian road. And to this very day children find along its shores little round smooth pebbles with holes through their centers, and prize them as Indian beads.

Oh, the long, singing, dreaming summer days spent exploring Dry Run; the time with no future and no past, only a present of utter contentment. The world a blue and sun-shine-colored place, the creek an enchanted stream with wonderful fish falls, great basking stones, cool oozing mud delicious to little toes. You stood in the purple shadow of the bridge by the gravel wash, where the water was green and still and cool, and the minnows and tadpoles lived; or you wandered farther and farther upstream where blue-winged dragon-flies darted almost invisible in the sun, and always the next bend called you with a never-ending charm. Always the next bend promised new wonders which you discovered and made your own; and then looked ahead to still the next bend. You had a secret ambition to go on and on until you came to the very source of this marvelous stream and planted your flag at the fount of all joys of childhood.

In the spring the melted snow made it a rushing torrent to you and terrifying, a wild, unfriendly stream that snatched your boots and the less, in the late summer it dried to a thin trickling stream, or unendurable to remember, to nothing at all but a glaring yellow bed of baked mud when all you could do was pray with farmers for rain. In the fall its banks were overhung with brown-eyed Susans and golden rod, and there was a red haw tree near the gravel wash (do you remember) where you sat for blissful hours eating red haws. Little hard worn red haws they were, but flavored with the hazy autumn sky, the golden sunshine and the swaying, whispering branches, they became food for the gods. And then in the winter you coasted down its banks or skated on its thrilling rubber ice, breaking through sometimes and bragging about it afterward. And you will always maintain that the most wonderful, most beautiful stream in the world is your own Dry Run Creek.

PRUDENCE OF THE PARSONAGE

By ETHEL HUESTON Copyright 1915 The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

Carol frowned. "I suppose we'll have to take it," she said, "but it's pretty expensive. I hate to have druggists get such a lot of money."

He laughed aloud. "I hate to have you get a licking tomorrow, too—but you'll get it just the same, or I miss my guess."

When the twins arrived home, Fairy was just cutting the candy she had made. "It's delicious," she said to Prudence. "Here's a nice dish for you and the girls.—Pitch in, twins, and help yourselves. It's very nice."

The twins waved her haughtily away. "No, thank you," they said. "We couldn't eat that candy with relish. We are unworthy."

"All right," Prudence put in quickly, as Fairy only laughed. "I'll put it in the cupboard, and Fairy and I will eat it tomorrow. It's perfectly fine—simply delicious."

But the twins were not to be tempted. Before they went up-stairs, Lark inquired sarcastically:

"I suppose, Fairy, you'll don your best blue silk in honor of this event?"

"Oh, no," was the ready answer. "I'll just wear my little green muslin. It's old, but very nice and comfortable—just right for an evening at home."

"Yes," scoffed Carol, "and of course you are remembering that every one says it is the most becoming dress you have."

"Oh, yes," laughed Fairy, "I'm remembering that, all right."

Then the twins went up-stairs, but not to their own room at once. Instead they slipped noiselessly into the front bedroom, and a little later Carol came out into the hall and stood listening at the head of the stairs, as though on guard.

"Be sure and leave quite a few stitches in Lark," she whispered. "We want it to hang together until Babbie gets here."

That was all. Presently Lark emerged, and their own door closed behind them.

"It's a good thing father has to go to the trustees' meeting tonight, isn't it?" asked Carol. And Lark agreed, absently. She was thinking of the oysters.

As soon as they finished supper, Lark said, "Don't you think we'd better go right to bed, Prue? We don't want to taint the atmosphere of the parsonage. Of course, Fairy will want to wash the dishes herself to make sure they are clean and shining."

"Oh, no," disclaimed Fairy, still good-naturedly. "I can give an extra rub to the ones we want to use—that's enough. I do appreciate the thought, though, thanks very much."

So the twins plunged in, carefully keeping Connie beside them. "She has such a full-to-overflowing look," said Carol. "If we don't keep hold of her, she'll let something bubble over." Connie had a dismal propensity for giving things away—the twins had often suffered from it. Tonight, they were determined to forestall such a calamity.

Then they all went to bed. To be sure it was ridiculously early, but they were all determined.

"We feel weak under this unusual strain. Our nerves can't stand the tension. We really must retire to rest. Maybe a good night's sleep will restore us to normal," Lark explained gravely.

Fairy only laughed. "Good!" she cried. "Do go to bed. The only time I am sure of you is when you are in your beds. Do you mind if I tie you in, to make assurance doubly sure?"

But the twins and Connie had disappeared.

"You keep your eyes open, Fairy," Prudence whispered melodramatically. "Those girls do not act right. Something is hanging over our heads. And she added anxiously, "Oh, I'll be so disappointed if things go badly. This is the first time we've ever lived up to etiquette, and I feel it is really a crisis."

Fairy was a little late getting upstairs to dress, but she took time to drop into her sisters' room. There were all in bed, breathing heavily. She walked from one to another, and stood above them majestically.

"Asleep!" she cried. "Ah, Fortune is kind. They are asleep. How I love these darling little twinnies—in their sleep."

An audible sniff from beneath the covers, and Fairy, smiling mischievously, went into the front room to prepare for her caller.

The bell rang as she was dressing.

Be Careful in Using Soap on Your Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulified cocoanut oil, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces, you can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

NEWS NOTES—MOVIELAND

Mary Anderson will not appear upon the screen, at least not for the present. Though the famous actress has announced her willingness to pose for the camera, she surrounded her acceptance with two conditions: First of all, she refuses to go to California to be photographed. In the second place, she announces that the name "May Anderson" must not be used on any advertising matter. Miss Anderson did not say the pictures should not be exhibited after being filmed, but it may be surmised that, if pressed, she might have done so.

The announcement came as a reply to the offer of Triangle-Fine Arts officials. An enormous salary was offered, it is reported. As the producers were unwilling to go to Europe to take the pictures, and disliked the idea of not advertising their wares, negotiations were called off. According to present indications, it will be some time before Miss Anderson is seen in photoplays.

Swings High in Air, Admits Her Fright

Charles Richman and Arline Pretty, who are featured in a forthcoming Vitaphone production, are just getting their nerves soothed down after staging a thriller. Miss Pretty, as the heroine, is in a sanitarium, in a room on the fifth floor, facing the street. Next door is a vacant house, five stories high. Grasping a rope suspended from the roof, Miss Pretty swung from her room on the fifth floor, to a room on the fourth floor of the house next door.

That the scene was taken without a hitch of any kind is a tribute to the daring of Miss Pretty, and the steady hand and eye of Charles Richman. Most actresses would have boasted after the scene was taken that they felt never a bit nervous, but Miss Pretty was frank enough to say that she was uttering prayers all the way over that a retake would not be necessary.

Crane Wilbur, who is the star and author of the Horsley-Mutual feature "The Spite Husband," portrays a fisherman in the early scenes. During the filming of a scene recently he was photographed casting a net and Prudence went to the door, preternaturally ceremonious, and ushered Mr. Babler into the front room. She turned on the electric switch as she opened the door. She was too much impressed with the solemnity of the occasion to take much note of her surroundings, and she did not observe that the young man sniffed in a peculiar manner as he entered the room.

"I'll call Fairy," she said demurely. "Tell her she needn't primp for me," he answered, laughing. "I know just how she looks already."

But Prudence was too heavily burdened to laugh. She smiled hospitably, and closed the door upon him. Fairy was tripping down the stairs, very tall, very handsome, very gay. She pinched her sister's arm as she passed, and the front room door swung behind. But she did not greet her friend. She stood erect by the door, her head tilted on one side, sniffing, sniffing.

"What in the world?" she wondered. Then she blushed. Perhaps it was something he had used on his hair! Or perhaps he had been having his suit cleaned! "Oh, I guess it's nothing, after all," she stammered. But Eugene Babler was strangely quiet. He looked about the room in a peculiar, furtive manner.

"Shall I raise a window?" he suggested finally. "It's rather—er—hot in here."

"Yes, do," she urged. "Raise all of them. It's—do you—do you notice a—funny smell in here? Or am I imagining it?—It—it almost makes me sick!"

"Yes, there is a smell," he said, in evident relief. "I thought maybe you had been cleaning the carpet with something. It's ghastly. Can't we go somewhere else?"

"Come on," She opened the door into the sitting-room. "We're coming out here if you do not mind, Prudence." And Fairy explained the difficulty.

"Why, that's very strange," said Prudence, knitting her brows. "I was in there right after supper, and I didn't notice anything. What does it smell like?"

"It's a new smell to me," laughed Fairy. "but something about it is strangely suggestive of our angel-twins."

Prudence went to investigate, and Fairy shoved a big chair near the table, waving her hand toward it lightly with a smile at Babbie. Then she sank into a low, rocker, and leaned one arm on the table. She wrinkled her forehead thoughtfully. "That smell," she began. "I am very suspicious about it. It was not a natural—"

"Excuse me, Fairy," he said, ill-

Mrs. Edgar Nixon of La Farge visited Viroqua friends the fore part of the week.

Arthur Douglas of La Crosse is a guest at the Ed. Norris home in this city.

The Mesdames Webb, Loveless and Frazier of Viola were Viroqua visitors Tuesday.

Milady's Skirt To Be Longer is Edict of Paris

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—A Parisian edict was received today anent the amount of material in milady's skirt. There is to be more of it. The addition, say fashion's formulators, does not mean fuller garments. Skirts are to be worn longer. The big hip, predominant in present styles, is taboo. Coats will be longer for women and shorter for men. Sleeves must be enlarged near the shoulders without too much trend toward the old "leg o' mutton" of years ago.

Spring Grove

SPRING GROVE, Minn. (Special.)—Knut Folkedal returned Monday morning from Des Moines, Iowa, where he has been attending school. He intends to leave for Williston, N. D., Wednesday where he will spend the summer.

John Bjerke of Highlandville was a business caller here Monday.

C. J. Helland and family are spending a few weeks vacation at Mt. Horeb and other Wisconsin points.

Gust Gunderson of St. Paul was a business caller here Monday.

A. Larson and sons autored to La Crosse Sunday returning the same day.

Mrs. C. E. Lyman of Caledonia is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Ove Hoegh.

Emil Selts of La Crosse was here on business Tuesday.

Harry Engell is spending a few days with his father and relatives here.

WESTBY

WESTBY, Wis. (Special.)—Frank Rudolf and family of Cashton were here yesterday in their new Oakland.

The Misses Helen Otteson and Eva Slack of Viroqua, visited friends here Tuesday.

Selmer Larson is home for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Soren Larson.

Mr. A. E. Smith of Viroqua, was in town yesterday in the interests of the Viroqua Chautauqua which begins next Sunday.

Miss Rose Melgaard of Cashton, visited friends here yesterday.

Miss Belva Olson, who is one of the head nurses at the Michael Reese hospital at Chicago, came home on Tuesday morning for a month's vacation.

The Misses Norma Sangstad and Hertha Nottstad visited in Coon Valley the first part of the week.

HOT WEATHER IS FATAL TO FARMER BOY OF RUSHFORD

Alfred Anderson Is Sun-struck Saturday While Working Out in the Field

RUSHFORD, Minn.—(Special.)—The protracted heated term was broken last Monday. One death occurred of sunstroke—that of Alfred, the seventeen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hovel Anderson, who reside a short distance from Peterson, west of here. The young man was at work in the field Saturday afternoon and was stricken by the sun. He did not recover consciousness all that night and passed away on Sunday afternoon.

Scouts Get Suits
The Boy Scouts are holding their heads high now-a-days, the reason being that they have just received their fifty new suits. Last Monday evening's meeting was the first try-out given them. The boys and their leader, Rev. J. C. Bantly, are planning upon some public exhibition to be given in the near future, by which they hope to put enough money in the treasury for the purchase of tents and other equipment for extended outings.

Services Abandoned
As Rev. J. C. Bantly, pastor of the Rushford Presbyterian church, is taking his annual summer vacation this month (August) there will be neither morning nor evening services held there during this time. The Sunday school will also be discontinued during the month, many of the officers, teachers and pupils being out of town.

Square Corners Required
The driver of every auto who wishes to keep out of trouble with the city authorities must, in future, recognize the fact that the little "markers" set squarely in the center of the intersection of the city streets, are placed there for business and not fun. They mean that a square corner must be turned, instead of the risky "round" which has hitherto proved a menace to the safety of pedestrians. Small American flags, set firmly into heavy iron bases, mark the center of each square.

Rat Poison Kills Dogs
John Akre's family is mourning the loss, by poisoning, of their family pet, a coach dog. It is only one of the numerous losses suffered in this way this spring and summer. It is believed that the canines have been killed by poison placed for rats. A valuable puppy belonging to Simon Hoegh was killed in the same way a while ago.

Personals
The Misses Madeline Bjerke and Francis Poss have returned from a visit with the latter's sister, Miss Edna Foss of La Crosse.

Miss Geneva Anderson of Wolford, N. D., is a guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Gunder Anderson, and other relatives, on Ferry Street.

Mrs. E. St. John and granddaughter Avis of Vinegar Hill departed last Monday noon for an extended visit with relatives in Castlewood, N. D.

Inadvertently, we have omitted to mention the party of a sturdy, artistic photographer, who arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Greethurst a few days ago. The George James home has also been recently brightened by the advent of another little son.

FANNIE WARD IN DRAMA OF SLUMS

Fannie Ward, the distinguished dramatic star who scored such a pronounced success as photodramatic artist in "The Cheat," will be seen at the Bijou tonight, Friday and Saturday, in the Jesse L. Lasky production "A Gutter Magdalene," taken from Willard Mack's story and prepared for the screen by Clinton H. Stagg. This story has to do with the adventures of a young girl who falls into the toils of an unscrupulous crook and how she leaves him and joins the Salvation army and while there falls in love with a man she helped ruin. Miss Ward is surrounded by a cast of unusual excellence, consisting of such distinguished actors as Jack Dean, Billy Elmer, James Neill, Gertrude Keller and Robert Brabury. Also Pictographs showing.

"THE DESERTER" AT THE MAJESTIC TODAY

There is good action in the fighting scenes in the Deserter which was supervised by Thomas H. Ince. The scene where Charlie Ray and the Indian both fall over the embankment, their going with them is a sure-enough thrill. This scene comes right after a splendid bit in which the Indian had leaped from his own horse to the back of Mr. Ray's mount and then the horse with both riders, goes plunging down the side of the mountain, landing at the bottom after turning over a number of times apparently none the worse for the exciting experience.

"The Deserter" will be at the Majestic today, Friday and Saturday. In addition, the comedy, Douglas Fairbanks will be presented in "The Mystery of the Leaping Fish."

GLYCERINE AND BARK PREVENT APPENDICITIS

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-ika, astonishes La Crosse people. Because Adler-ika acts on BOTH lower and upper bowels, ANY CASE of constipation, sour stomach or gas. It removes such surprising foul matter that a few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-ika is astonishing. Hoehschler Bros., Druggists.

FIVE ESCAPE WHEN CARS RUN OVER STEEP EMBANKMENT

Trempealeau People Near Death When Automobile Drops Into Six Feet of Water in Second Lake

THE CAMPERS SAVE LIFE
Their Assistance Given Immediately and Occupants of Car Taken Out in Boats

TREMPEALEAU, Wis.—(Special.)—Five people miraculously escaped death Tuesday evening when the auto driven and owned by Wm. Merwin plunged over the bank and into six feet of water in Second Lake.

The car was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Merwin, Mrs. S. E. Hutchins, Mrs. C. H. Growt and Miss Juanita Hutchins; all of whom escaped without injury other than a bad scare.

Crowd Saves Lives
The occupants were immediately taken from the car in boats. Fortunately a large crowd of campers and picnickers were present and assistance was given immediately. About twenty friends of Dr. and Mrs. S. E. Hutchins had gathered at Lakeside park as a sort of farewell picnic to them before leaving for Whitehall where they expect to move and make their future home.

The trip to the grounds was made by auto and the crowd was just starting its return home when the accident occurred.

Drops Over Bank
Mr. Merwin had turned his car around and probably had his foot on the wrong pedal and ran straight over the four foot embankment into the lake, going over the bank and into the lake squarely.

The top was up, which would have prevented escape had it occurred.

The car was afterward taken from the lake. The only visible damage being the two front axles being badly bent.

THE HASKIN LETTER

ELECTORAL ROLL CALLS FOR CONGRESS

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—Into the more or less dignified, at times orderly, and always slow procedure of the House of Representatives of the United States is about to be injected an element of modern mechanical efficiency. Quite literally a jump spark is to be applied to the deliberations of the lower house. It will be in the form of an electrical voting device, which will be capable of recording and adding the vote of the members present in about thirty-four seconds.

The average time occupied in calling the roll as done at present by the house reading clerks is about forty minutes, for the name of every member must be read twice. A congressman with a head for mathematics estimated that fifty-six days were spent calling the roll during the sessions of one congress. It seems quite within the probabilities that this machine, if installed and successful, will save a great deal of time.

As for the machine, it is the invention of B. L. Broboff a native of Russia, a citizen of the United States, and a resident of Milwaukee, Wisconsin. It has already been installed and successfully demonstrated in the hall of the Wisconsin state legislature at Madison, Wisconsin, and Mr. Broboff has also demonstrated it on a small scale at Washington.

Many members of congress have already expressed themselves as favorable to its installation. Representative Howard of Georgia has introduced a bill providing $125,000 for the purpose; and Mr. Broboff has appeared before the committee on accounts and gave a convincing statement about the working of his machine, and the need for it. He declares that it will speedily save its own cost in time, light and heat; that it will last a couple of centuries, literally never get out of order; and that one man without any electrical training can care for and operate it.

In the last analysis, the success of this machine in speeding up the house will depend upon the members. It can record and add a vote in thirty-four seconds, but not unless the voters are there. Of course, a vote might be taken with only one member present; but the question which remains unsettled is whether this new method will really facilitate the gathering of quorums.

Mr. Howard, who introduced the bill, and other members who want to see the machine installed, believe that it will do so. A certain time will have to be set for the taking of the vote—say five minutes—and all members who have not pressed their buttons for yea or nay and flashed a red light or white one on the recording board will then be considered absent. It is the hope and belief of those who want the system that its speedy operation will compel members to stay on the floor of the house if they are interested in the bill, or if they want to avoid making a record for continual absence from roll calls.

And that brings to the fore the biggest problem in the present-day deliberations of the house. Gradually, but very perceptibly it is changing from a deliberative body, where legislation is debated and formulated, to an aggregation of clerks and agents, who appoint committees to draft laws and leaders to tell them how they shall vote, and spend their own time attending to a multitude of details for various individuals.

Formerly, the house was a great deal smaller; there was no house of office building; the members had their offices scattered all over Washington. They nearly all attended every session of congress.

Now the office building is right across the street from the Capitol. During the ordinary sessions of the house, a few of the leaders, and some others will be found upon the floor, earnestly arguing. A vote is desired. Electrical bells are rung that resound through all the corridors of the house office building. The congressmen whose names begin with A, B and C leap to their feet and depart for the hall of legislation. The K's and L's however, begin dictating another letter; while the P's and Q's and X's merely glance at their watches. It will be at least half an hour before their names are reached on the second roll call. They go right on studying pension claims; dispatching garden seeds and year books of the department of agriculture; drafting laws to donate a cannon for the city park in Podunk, or permitting John Jones to build a bridge across frog creek in Summersquash County, Missouri; or appropriating a hundred and fifty thousand dollars to erect a postoffice at Watertank, Nevada.

The congressmen have to do these things in order to hold their jobs. The great majority of their time doing little things for individuals and counties and towns. They give a small fraction of their time to national affairs. The leaders who really give most of their time to national legislation spend a great deal more than the government allows them for clerk hire; and they are veterans of many sessions experience, whose seats are very secure.

There is one young congressman who says that he never misses a session of the house. He explains that he dictates all of his letters at home every night. All morning he spends in the departments prosecuting the numerous claims for which every congressman is the unwilling advocate. This leaves him from noon, when the house convenes until evening for attendance to the business of the nation. He works about sixteen hours a day. There are few others who can do it, and still fewer who will. So congress is literally coming a gathering of preoccupied agents, who line up well enough on party votes, but by force of circumstances, give the country less and less of the independent thought upon national questions which is the life of legislation.

The Broboff electrical voting machine may work a considerable modification of this tendency by compelling the congressman to be close at hand if he is going to vote at all, and by saving a month or so of time for him out of every session.

Two other changes have been suggested as accompaniments of the electrical device. One is the abolishment of the electrical bells which now announce every vote, and disturb everybody on Capitol Hill. The other is the restoration of the desks, which were replaced not long ago by long benches much like those in a railway waiting room. It is argued that if the congressman has a place in the legislative hall where he can work, he is more apt to remain there. It is certainly true that the benches now in use offer the congressman little in the way of either comfort or opportunity for work.

One somewhat revolutionary effect of the electrical voter will be the abolishment of the reversed filibuster. This consists in delaying business by repeatedly making the point of no quorum, necessitating the calling of the roll; and delaying the business of the house forty minutes. Then, before much progress is made, the point is repeated. In this way, one member can interfere with the work of the house, while a minority may even force a compromise from a majority.

Notwithstanding that the filibuster is a terrible waste of time, it has generally been regarded as one of the rights of the minority. The hearing on the Howard bill brought out some interesting side lights on the subject. The chairman of the committee remarked that "a man who makes a point of order does it out of some pique."

"A man who wants to speak is not allowed to speak, and then he makes the house pay for it, and he can do it very readily," he explained. That is generally the gist of a filibuster in the house. The filibuster is like the little boy at the back lot base ball game who wants to pitch, and isn't allowed to, so he runs off with the catcher's mitt.

The Broboff device, if installed, would consist simply in a big board, or perhaps two of them, much like an electrical scoreboard, where each congressman's name would appear, with a red bulb and a white one after it. At each congressman's elbow would be a couple of buttons, which could be pressed only with the aid of a key in his possession. When the vote had been announced, he would press his yea or nay button at any time within the specified period. He could also change his vote any time within that period. The machine would then automatically add the vote and show the result.

There would be about seventy miles of copper wire in the machine, and copper is at present selling at a very high price because of the war. This fact, operating in conjunction with the legislative desire to appear economical, may postpone the installation; but electrical voting is almost sure to become the accepted method for legislative bodies.

HE'S FOR COOK

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—A resolution by Representative Helgeson of North Dakota would take away from Admiral Peary the thanks and increased pay voted him to congress and declare spurious his claim to the discovery of the north pole.

BENEFIT SOCIAL

Women Plan Public Event and Appeal for Cakes and Liberal Patronage in Benefit for "Boys"

EVEN OFFICERS "B R O K E"

Captain Merrill Sends Telegram Saying Pay Days Are Few and Far Between and Men Are Shy of Cash

SPARTA, Wis.—(Special.)—The ladies of Sparta are planning an ice cream social to be given on the lawn at the Lewis House, Water street, on Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, and continuing through the evening, the proceeds of which will be given as a benefit to Company L.

Anyone who is interested in the matter and will donate a cake will help the ladies and at the same time be helping the soldier boys, who are on the border.

It is hoped that the affair will be liberally patronized for the benefit of the "boys."

From the Border

Captain Robert A. Merrill sent home the following telegram of recent date:

"San Antonio, Texas.

"Everything is progressing nicely. Brigade has been on practice marches for three days. Another tomorrow. Weather fine; some rain, and plenty of mud. Very little sickness, some sore feet, but everyone in good spirits. No pay day in sight and men all broke, including the officers."

OVER WHEAT CROP

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway's crop report for territory west of the Missouri river says: Light rains the past week in North and South Dakota west of the Missouri river have improved the outlook and benefited the coarse grains materially. Damage to wheat from rust and hot weather is confined to late sown wheat and wheat sown on stubble.

Wheat in the Musselshell Valley has suffered somewhat from high temperature, but other crops are in good condition. In the Judith Basin, all conditions have been favorable with the exception of a hail storm in the northern part of a very limited area.

In Washington the grain in the Palouse country is being harvested and will yield about the same as last year.

DR. EVA HARDING

the count has been so close and so slow that the official count probably will be necessary to decide the contest.

"I would like to know if I have been nominated," Dr. Harding told the United Press this morning when informed that the race was still close.

A Topeka minister, Rev. H. J. Corwine, is Dr. Harding's opponent for the democratic nomination in the first congressional district.

Dr. Harding is the first woman to seek the nomination for the United States congress on either of the two major parties. She sought the nomination on the democratic ticket out of "sheer gratitude," she says.

"The democrats gave the Kansas women the franchise and I could not do anything else than be a democrat; besides, I don't believe in the tariff anyhow," she said.

Dr. Harding was born in Springfield, Ohio, in 1859. Her girlhood was spent in Lafayette, Ind. In 1882 she was graduated from the Hemenan Medical college, Chicago, and at once came to Topeka, where she has been foremost among reformers.

"I have been a suffragette for 59 years, my parents knew Susan B. Anthony intimately and I could not have been anything else had I wanted to," Dr. Harding declared.

"I have never married and I am thankful for that, too. It is such a terrible risk. While I have had the name of being a very brave woman I was never brave enough to take a cruise on the sea of matrimony."

If Dr. Harding is nominated she will campaign against D. R. Anthony, Leavenworth, who the republicans have named for congress from the First district.

Barelegged Girls Dance

On Salsas Near Cleveland

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3.—Barelegged and in most cases barefooted, Cleveland girls are dancing on the beaches of Lake Erie here today. The fad was started by Miss Millie Peckham and Miss Byrle McCulloch, following a visit to San Francisco. They heard that an English scientist said all vitality is taken in through the soles of the feet. Cleveland girls say that water soaked sand make the best kind of dance floor.

If a man will foolishly keep on proposing to woman, the time will come when she will call his bluff.

How You Can Make

Hairs Quickly Disappear

(Helps to Beauty)

Even a stubborn growth of hair will quickly vanish from the face, neck or arms after a single treatment with delatone. To remove the hairs, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left free from hair or blemish. To avoid disappointment, be quite certain you get real delatone.

PASS AMENDMENT OR WE FIGHT IS WOMEN'S DICTUM

Woman's Party for Hughes Declares Leader Unless Congress Takes Action This Session

MEASURED ON ACTION

G. O. P. Can Get by on Promise but the Democrats Must Deliver Is the Judgment

DENVER, Col., Aug. 2.—One "We must judge the democratic party on its performance and the republican party on its promises. Just as we hold President Wilson to a strict accountability for his suffrage record, so we will hold Governor Hughes to his promise of national suffrage, if he is elected."

"The leaders of the woman's party are no babes in the woods. We realize that politics and hope of victory may have had a great deal to do with the change in Governor Hughes toward favoring national suffrage. But we have not even a promise from the democrats."

"We have every confidence that as leader of his party Governor Hughes will keep his word. The party that secures the political freedom of all women will inevitably win the undying loyalty and adherence of the women voters. Will the democrats give this great opportunity to the republican party?"

Miss Martin is directing efforts to raise a $100,000 campaign fund for the woman's party.

CONFERENCE FAILS AND GOTHAM IS SURE OF STRIKE

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Tie-up of the 1,291 cars that operate on the 450 miles of surface tracks on the New York city railways within twenty-four hours seemed certain shortly before noon when the conference called by Mayor Mitchell between union and company representatives failed to reach an agreement. Eight thousand men are affected.

Such an addition to the lines on which strikes already have been declared would bring the total mileage directly affected up to 1,010, the number of cars up to 2,148, and the number of men to 15,600.

Union leaders insisted on recognition. President Theodore Shonts of the New York city railways refused.

MESSAGE TO U. P. POPE'S WORD TO ALL OF EUROPE

ROME, Aug. 2.—Pope Benedict's expression of hope that prayers of innocent children might bring Divine intercession and stoppage of war as expressed in Cardinal Gaspari's message last Saturday to the United Press, was substituted by the Vatican today for the papal encyclical which had been expected would be issued on this date. The message was extensively reprinted in Italian and French newspapers.

Although peace rumors continue here, Roman political circles assert England is reconciled to the possibility of eighteen months more of the war before a final allied victory.

MOOSE REMNANTS MEET IN MUDDLE OVER THE FUTURE

Three Plans Laid Before Party Leaders at Meeting Today in Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 3.—The three-way split that divides the remaining progressive party leaders, was emphasized today with the arrival of Representative bull moose from many states for the national conference which opened at 11 a. m. in the Claypool hotel.

Three delegates were represented by the delegates. They were:

To let the national ticket go by default but to start an aggressive four-year campaign for 1920.

To endorse President Wilson.

To order a national convention and begin the best fight possible against both old parties.

These three possibilities appeared to have strength in the order given, with the controlling element against a national ticket and against an endorsement of Wilson.

"There are only two possibilities for this conference to decide: 'Shall we have a national ticket, or shall we not?' said John M. Parker, the convention nominee for vice-president.

As the conference convened Parker, made known his plan for the party.

"My plan," he said in an interview, "is to concentrate the progressive fight on a few states where there is the best chance to elect presidential electors. These electors could swing to the candidate ready to make the most concessions to progressives. If we held the balance of power we could then swing the election of president into the house of representatives."

N. W. WARREN DIES AT CLEAR LAKE

N. W. Warren, former resident of La Crosse and father of Mrs. George L. Rupert, 902 Ferry street, died at Clear Lake, Wis., recently after an illness of eight weeks. NEGRO ARRESTED HERE FOR LURING BOY FROM HOME

On promises of a new suit of clothes, lots of money, candy, shows and a gay life in general, Adolph Walworth, aged 16, Winona, Minn., left home on Tuesday, boarded a freight train with Frank Brown, 35, Milwaukee, a negro, and came to La Crosse.

Both the boy and the negro were arrested here on Thursday. They occupied a room at a lodging house last night, where Brown registered under the name of Harper.

Brown will be arraigned in county court on Thursday.

FRENCH ATTACK IN FORCE IN THE VERDUN SECTOR

Germans Admit That Three Points of Attack Saw French Successes

GERMAN COUNTER ATTACK

Trenches Taken Yesterday Are Said to Have Withstood Efforts to Retake Them

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Fighting around Verdun today again took the center of interest in the daily war reports. Frank admission was made in the Berlin official statement that the French attacks at three points against the encircling German lines around the fortress city had been successful.

From the Berlin and Paris war office reports, it appeared that the French activity in this sector almost partook of a general offensive movement against the German army of the crown prince. Berlin admitted French troops yesterday "gained a footing on Pepper Ridge (La Cote du Poppe) just below Vacheraville on the Meuse at the northern point of the German encircling attempt."

The success of a French drive "southwest of Fleury" was admitted.

Paris reported violent German counter attacks against the trenches captured yesterday on the right bank of the Meuse, which they asserted had been repulsed with heavy losses.

There was apparently a slight lull in the fighting along the Anglo-German front. General Haig merely reporting artillery fighting.

The Paris official statement today said the German losses since July 30, have been so heavy that all their regiments have had to be reformed.

NORTH M'GREGOR WORK BEGUN BY MILWAUKEE ROAD

Improvement Work Starts with Large Number of Workmen; to Require Two Years to Complete Job

McGREGOR, Iowa, (Special).—Work on the big new railroad improvements at North McGregor is now well started, though a much larger number of men will be employed later on than at present.

Dougherty and Slane of Minneapolis have the contract for the steam-shoveling and grading and have begun the job of cutting away the hill which is to be the site for the new roundhouse. The dirt is being carried out over the flat. The filling in as it progresses will convert many acres of swamp and stagnant pools between the hills and the creek into a high grade for truckage. This stretch of low land has always been an unsightly and unhealthy feature of the town and the people will benefit greatly in a sanitary way by the change.

The hill just north of the site for the roundhouse will be cut away to give place for the shops. On the second hill to the north a crew of men with teams, dump wagons and a big grading outfit are employed building a half mile of fine new county road to take the place of the old road which has been closed up and will become a part of the site for the new buildings. The new highway will follow around the hill slope a hundred feet or more above the bottomlands and promises to be a pretty scenic drive. Along the line of the road a dozen bunkhouse and the boarding of the workmen are either completed or in course of construction. A water tank has been erected on the hill back of the houses and spring water from a large spring in the hills is piped into it and to all the buildings. The houses are electric lighted. At the foot of the hills two offices for the engineers have been built.

It is estimated that it will be two years before the improvements are fully completed. The contractors expect to be a year cutting away the hills for the buildings and waterway and raising the grades for the tracks.

PRESIDENT TAKES HAND IN STRIKE WHICH THREATENS

Calls for Conference with the Head of Mediation Commission About Railroad Situation

WASHINGTON IN DREA D

Fear That Railroad Tie-up Now Would Paralyze the Industries of the Nation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Probability of early government effort to prevent the threatened railroad strike was seen this afternoon in the naming by President Wilson of G. W. W. Hanger to be a member of the United States board of mediation and conciliation, filling a vacancy that has existed two years.

(By ROBERT J. BENDER)

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—President Wilson today requested a conference with Commissioner Chambers of the United States board of mediation and conciliation, presumably to discuss the threatened strike of the big four brotherhood of railway men, which would cause a nation-wide tie-up of transportation.

The matter is now directly before the president in form of a letter from Chairman Harry A. Wheeler of the railway committee, United States chamber of commerce. The letter urges an "inquiry on behalf of the administration" to investigate the impending crisis. Scores of informal requests for action also have been received.

No Action Now

However, until the trainmen's strike vote is counted—expected August 7.—the president probably will decide no course of action.

From an economic standpoint, the strike, if called, would assume cataclysmic proportions in the belief of officials here. It would completely tie up freight traffic throughout the country halting grain shipments, food and supplies of all kinds to an extent and with results impossible of forecast.

The president is being kept informed promptly of every move in the threatened crisis. When the vote of the trainmen is counted—and it is assumed it will favor a strike—the United States board of mediation and conciliation will at once offer its service.

In the event of this board failing to bring peace—and perhaps coincident with the launching of its efforts—the president may attempt to prevent the break.

Northwest for Strike

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 3.—The vote of railway brotherhoods in the northwest is in favor of decided action if the railways refuse employees' demands it was learned today as officials of the brotherhoods left for New York with the "strike vote" of the northwest railway men.

BOLT IN STATION STARTS A PANIC

Passengers Scramble Out Into the Rain When Fuse Box Is Struck by Lightning

Scores of persons on the 12:30 Milwaukee passenger train were panic stricken on Thursday when a bolt of lightning struck a fuse box under the sheds of the Milwaukee railroad station, twenty feet from the train.

An arc of fire shot halfway between the fuse box and the standing train. Men and women tried to climb from the train windows. Many left the coaches hurriedly and several persons are said to have been slightly bruised by those in back of them who pushed and fought to get out. Some of those in the coaches thought the coaches were on fire.

Railroad workmen, and several persons who stood under the station sheds, scattered in all directions, in spite of the downpour. The bolt struck the fuse box while the rain was at its height.

The fuse box did not catch on fire. Professor T. H. Campion, principal of the La Crosse county school of agriculture, Alaska, told THE TRIBUNE today that he estimated the rain of Thursday to be worth a round half a million dollars to the farmers of La Crosse county, Minnesota and Iowa, in the communities surrounding La Crosse.

HALF-DOZEN ZEPS SHOWER BOMBSON EASTERN BRITAIN

Fourth Air Raid in Less Than a Week Results in Reported Loss of Dirigible

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The fourth German raid on British east counties occurred early today and like previous excursions on like character resulted in little damage, according to first official reports.

Six or seven Zeppelins formed the squadron. They dropped "a considerable number" of bombs, according to the war office statement, but exact reports of any damage have not yet been received.

It is reported one of the raiders was hit and badly damaged by anti-aircraft guns.

British patrols sighted here the Zeppelins soon after they reached points over British soil and anti-aircraft guns opened at once. The dirigibles flew at heights of from 3,000 to 5,000 feet.

In the fourth air raid in less than seven days British patrols were able to sight the aerial invaders before they passed over British soil. Warnings were sent broadcast over all the east coast counties long before the dirigibles appeared overhead.

"The night's air raid damage was astonishingly small," said a statement from the war office later in the day. "Nine soldiers were killed and three injured."

NINE DEAD AND THIRTY MISSING FOLLOWING FLOOD

Nearly Every House Along the Tennessee Creek Is Carried Away by the Creek

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Eight battalions of citizen sailors have enlisted from all over the country for a naval training cruise which will sail from eastern ports August 15 for a month. Navy department plans for the event were completed today.

The 2,500 naval rookies will be members of the crews of the sea fighters during the voyages.

During the closing days of the cruise from September 5 to 12 inclusive there will be a mobilization of the eight ships for a cruise along the Pacific coast, accompanied by the newly organized naval motor boat auxiliary. These motorboats numbering several thousand are owned and will be manned by private citizens.

SOLDIER'S WIFE SOB STORY FROM SENTINEL FALSE

The Milwaukee Sentinel Thursday morning contained a new story from Camp Wilson, San Antonio, Texas, to the effect that members of the Third regiment told a Sentinel reporter there that the city of La Crosse had turned off water from the home of a La Crosse soldier because the soldier's wife had not been able to pay the water rent.

The story was emphatically denied by the board of public works.

It was pointed out that six months ago the common council ordered that water be not shut off, but that the water rent be charged to the property and made payable with the annual taxes.

FAIRMONT SENDS DELEGATION TO PFEIFFER FUNERAL

The funeral of Matt Pfeiffer, former resident who died at his home at Fairmont, Minn., Tuesday after an operation at a local hospital, will be held from the Pfeiffer residence, 1117 Main street, tomorrow at half past two. Rev. Johnson of the Episcopal church will officiate. There will be a short service at the grave in accordance with the Old Fellows ritual. Mr. Pfeiffer having been an Odd Fellow for a great number of years. Interment will be made in Oak Grove cemetery.

C. N. Petersen, William Hay, F. W. Betz, J. T. Swearingen, Frank A. Day and Mayor David of Fairmont are expected to attend the funeral.

BANGOR ASSAULT CASES GRADUATE INTO HIGHER COURT

The "gate of troubles" case from Bangor, in which Will E. Weinke and his niece, Miss Gladys Bencie, allege they received a beating at the hands of Mrs. Hannah Thomas and her hired men, Will and Joseph Hanson, has graduated into circuit court. The complaints, it became known today, have been changed to charge "assault with intent to do great bodily harm," instead of simple "assault."

The addition takes the cases from county to circuit court.

Mrs. Thomas and her henchmen were given preliminary hearings before Judge Brindley Thursday afternoon.

DURANT, Okla., Aug. 3.—Revenue officers and deputy sheriffs today seized 1,500 gallons of "moonshine" whiskey in raids on two stills.

FATHER AND CHILD DIE UNEXPECTEDLY ONE WEEK APART

Haying Accident Nearly Costs the Life of a Young Harmony Farmer

HARMONY, Minn. (Special).—

Mike Walsh, an old resident of Harmony died Saturday morning at his home, age 70 years. Deceased leaves a wife, three daughters, Ellen, Cassia, Katherine, and six sons, Johnny, Thomas, Lawrence, William, George and Robert. The obsequies were held Monday morning at the St. Kierns church and interment in the cemetery near the church.

Mr. Walsh was sick only twenty-four hours. His youngest daughter, Mary Agnes died suddenly at their home on Sunday morning, July 23d and was buried on Tuesday. It is reported that Mr. Walsh's death was due to the extreme heat.

Canton is planning on a colt show for the 15th of August. Over $50 in cash prizes will be offered.

The village council has awarded the contract for the laying of 1350 feet of water main to Hector Coolcast of Marshall, Minn., for $1,190.36. The work must be completed October 1st.

Hurt by Hay Fork

While unloading hay in the barn of J. D. Benson south of Harmony, Dwight Hill recently met with a serious accident that came near costing his life. He was pulling the hay far back, forgetting about the slack of the rope and when it came to the center the clutch was released, shooting the fork with lightning speed downwards. Dwight made a side-ward jump but not quick enough to clear. One time of the fork pierced the back of his left hand between the first and second fingers going clear through. The wound will lay the young man up for some time.

While at work building a barn on his farm in Willow Creek, E. O. Moore in some manner injured his breast about two weeks ago. He kept at his work and paid no attention to the wound until Friday when he again bruised the affected parts. He came to town and the doctor discovered a cracked rib and immediately placed Mr. Moore in a cast.

MISS VESEY AND MISS LEITHOLD IN SEMI-FINALS

Miss Mildred Leithold and Miss Marion Vesey have won their way into the semi-finals of the women's tennis tournament, which will start Friday and will be finished Saturday afternoon.

Miss Leithold defeated Miss Esther Wager, 6-2, 8-6, 6-3. Miss Vesey triumphed over Miss Helen Dyson, 6-3, 6-1.

In the first round, Miss Leithold beat Miss Helen Clarke 3-6, 6-4, 6-3; Miss Wager beat Miss Irene Pamperin, 6-2, 8-6, 6-3; Miss Helen Harrison won from Miss Charlotte Coleman, 6-1, 6-4; Miss Irene Erickson defeated Miss Hazel Smith, in two love sets. Miss Dyson won from Miss Edna Shirley, 6-3, 6-1. Miss Vesey took her scheduled first round game by default from Miss Magdalene Hammack.

Miss Helen Harrison and Miss Erickson met Thursday afternoon in the second round.

Cups which will be awarded in the tournament are on exhibition in the window of Rose's jewelry store.

The consolation tournament for those who were beaten in the preliminary round is scheduled to start Friday afternoon. The unlucky ones are: Miss Helen Clarke, Irene Pamperin, Ruth Boynton, Ferial Delameter, Marguerite Kienahs, Carrie Strauss, Charlotte Smith and Edna Shirley.

The finals of both tournaments, it is expected, will be reached Monday or Tuesday of next week.

JOHNNY DUNDEE HELD
FOR KILLING A BOY

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Johnny Dundee, the well-known "Scotch"
lightweight whose real name is Joseph Corrao, is out on bail today

following the killing of a boy by his new automobile. His proposed bail with Welling is off and the fighter faces a serious charge of homicide as the police sergeant who made the arrest declares Dundee was at fault.

by Dundee's car as it rounded a corner and was knocked down. He died soon after being taken to a hospital.

If you have learned not to worry,
you have probably learned how to work out each day's problem without thinking of tomorrow's.

PHILLIES CREASE
CUBS IN DOZEN
INNING BATTLE

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Philadelphia, 1; Chicago, 0
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 3.—
Philadelphia on Wednesday defeated
Chicago, 1 to 0, in a pitching duel between Alexander and Prendergast,
which went twelve innings.
Killifer led off in the twelfth with a single and went to third when Wilson threw wild to catch him off first.
Alexander tied to Kelly. Paskert beat out a bunt. Killifer remaining at third until after Zimmerman, who covered first base, muffed Prendergast's throw. Zimmerman took his time going after the ball and Killifer scored.
Chicago's claim that Paskert
knocked the ball out of Zimmerman's hands was not allowed. The score:
Chicago 000000000000—0 7 3
Phila. 000000000000—1 12 1
Batteries: Prendergast and Wilson; Alexander and Killifer.

St. Louis, 5; Boston, 3
BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 3.—Landing on Hughes for two doubles and a single, with a walk after two were out, St. Louis scored three runs in the ninth inning and defeated the Braves, 5 to 3. The score:
St. Louis 000100103—5 10 1
Boston 001010001—3 8 0
Batteries: Ames, Williams and Gonzales; Tyler, Hubbes and Blackburn.

Cincinnati, 4; Brooklyn, 5
BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 3.—
Brooklyn and Cincinnati battled for thirteen innings on Wednesday, the former winning 5 to 4. Sluggers by Pfeffer and Johnston and Daubert's double brought across the deciding
run. Score: R H E
Cinci. 0101000200000—4 11 2
Brook. 1101010000001—5 21 5
Batteries: Schneider and Wingo; Pfeffer and McCarty.

Pittsburgh, 2; New York, 6
NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—New York
made it five out of six from Pittsburgh on Wednesday, winning 6 to 2.
Mamaux was hit harder than at any time this season, the Giants making thirteen hits for nineteen bases. The score:
Pittsburgh 000000110—2 5 1
New York 100210111—6 13 1
Batteries: Mamaux and Schmidt;
Benton and Rariden.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's Hero
Davey Robertson. Davey made three hits out of four times up and pulled off some of the greatest catches of the season when he went backward and skyward in the eighth inning for Max Carey's almost sure fire home run.

The Athletics lost their fourteenth successive game.
Despite making 21 hits and getting four bases on balls, the Brooklyn Dodgers made only five runs.

Weaver at short and Nessat, first,
were the points in three fast double plays the White Sox put over against Connie Mack.

Grover Cleveland Alexander handed the Cubs a twelve inning shut-out.
Eight Giants batted over 100
against Al Mammut.

The White Sox won their eighth straight.
A fan sitting near the Yankees,
who watched the Sox-Athletics game
shouted "I smell arnica."

SOX WIN EIGHTH
STRAIGHT BY 8-2
DEFEAT OF MACKS

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Philadelphia, 2; Chicago, 8
CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 3.—Chicago won its eighth straight victory on Wednesday, defeating Philadelphia, 8 to 2. It was the fourteenth consecutive defeat for the Athletics.
The locals bunched hits off Johnson and Williams.
Three lightning double plays by Weaver and Naas, a one hand catch by Walsh of a foul near the fence and Eddie Collins' triple with two on were the features.
Score: R H E
Philadelphia 100100000—2 7 0
Chicago 00020501x—8 13 1
Batteries: Johnson, Williams, Lanning and Haley; Cicotte, Benz and Lapp.

Boston, 5; Detroit, 2
DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 3.—Boston
won its fourth straight game here on Wednesday 5 to 2, largely because of Bolland's wildness. Foster pitched a fine game for Boston, and allowed
but two hits up to the eighth inning.
The fielding of both sides was fast,
and neither team made an error.
Score: R H E
Boston 023000000—5 8 0
Detroit 000000020—2 8 0
Batteries: Foster and Thomas;
Boland, Cunningham, Dubuc and Mc-Gee.

Washington, 0; Cleveland, 3
CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 3.—Cleveland shut out Washington, 3 to 0.
Gould allowed eight hits and passed
three, but was effective in the pinches and had excellent support. Cleveland bunched hits.
Score: R H E
Washington 000000000—0 5 3
Cleveland 00210000x—3 6 0
Batteries: Gallia, Ayers and Almsmith; Gould and O'Neil.

HENRY FORD NOT
AT HOME TO SEE
MME. SCHWIMMER

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 3.—Henry
Ford is "not at home" to Mme. Ros-ka Schwimmer, the peace advocate,
who is the guiding spirit of the recently lamented attempt to "get the boys out of the trenches by Christmas."

Mme. Schwimmer came to Detroit Monday and it was learned that she has not been able to obtain an interview with the former peace skipper. In an open letter to the automobile magazine, Mme. Schwim-mer admits she has sent two letters to Ford's house and two to his office without result.

BRETHREN, WE ARE TO
LOOK LIKE CHAMELEONS

CEDAR POINT, O., Aug.
3.—"Well-dressed men may possibly be mistaken for an overgrown chameleon next summer."
This statement was made
by Farr L. Scott, president of the International Custom Cutters' association, which is meeting here with delegates
in attendance from all parts of the United States and Canada.
President Scott made the remark after he explained that for 1917 coats are to be tighter and shorter than those worn this year. The proper material will be a purplish green.

HOFFMAN GOES TO YANKEES

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Artie Hof-man, former utility man for the Chicago Cubs, has been signed by the Yankees and will leave tonight for Detroit, where he will join Bill Donovan's crimples tomorrow. Hoffman was signed here last night by Donovan to help out the Yanks until a few of the six crimples are able to get back in the game. Hoffman has been running a baseball school here.

Love Always

Men think there are circumstances
when one may deal with human beings without love; and there are no such circumstances. One may deal with things without love; one may cut down trees, make bricks, hammer iron, without love; but you cannot deal with men without it, just as one cannot deal with bees without being careful. If you deal carelessly with bees, you will injure them, and will yourself be injured. And so with men.—Tolstoy.

Out of the Mouths of Kids
Where the carefully trained child learns bad manners is a standing mystery to its watchful parents.
These anxious rearers of the young are often heard propounding this query but generally without results.
Once in a while, however, out of the deep silence comes an illuminating answer.

Johnny furnished one just the other day. He had just finished a particularly toothsome dish of appalling pudding which he ate to the last morsel. Then, despite the fact that there was company at the table, he deliberately picked up his saucer
and licked it clean.

"Johnny!" exclaimed his mother,
after a horrified gasp, "who did you ever see do a thing like that?"

"Dogs," replied Johnny.—Life.

If a man will wait long enough,
everything will come to him except that which he wants.

LONG LANE TO THE
AMERICAN PENNANT
REACHES TURNING

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The long expected turning in the long lane to the American league pennant, has apparently been reached today. A series of successive victories by the teams in the rut, of consecutive defeats by others and the shattering of the pennant machine which Bill Donovan had built for New York seem to mark the crucial point in the scramble for Ban Johnson's pennant.

After the gamest fight a team has made in years, the Yankees are demoralized and have a record of six straight defeats to date.

At the very moment when the Yanks fell from the peak, Pants
Rowland's White Sox started an upward drive and today are out for their ninth straight. The Red Sox, climbing into first place over the prostrate Yankees, have taken four straight from the Tigers. Up out of the depths, the sound of Fielder

Jones' Browns, with twelve straight wins, is heard, while lower yet Connie Mack's Athletics are setting a pathetic record with fourteen consecutive defeats.

ROY HARTZEL TO
THE MINOR LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Old Roy Hartzel steps down to the minors tomorrow after ten years under the big
top. In sending the veteran to Baltimore to replace Miller, the Yankee owners declare the present arrangement is only temporary. Hartzel will probably stay with the Yankees
as a scout.

FULTON RESORT CLOSED

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 3.—The training quarters, dancing pavilion
and picnic grounds, operated by Fred Fulton, Minnesota heavyweight, at Lake Shady, Oronoco, were shut down today by a temporary injunction granted by the district court.
Citizens charged it was an immoral resort. Fulton was recently arrested there charged with throwing a girl into the lake.

THE GOOD JUDGE FINDS MOST MEN KNOW WHY THEY USE W-B CUT TOBACCO.

I SEE YOU GENTLEMEN
USE W-B CUT TOBACCO
MAY I ASK WHY?

IT'S QUALITY
TOBACCO—CUT FINE
AND SEASONED WITH SALT, SO A LITTLE
CHEW SATISFIES.

YES, AND A MAN DOESN'T HAVE TO GRIND AND SPIT LIKE
THOSE WHO USE
ORDINARY TOBACCO.

YOU can't hide the truth—that's why men who use
W-B CUT Chewing know what quality tobacco is.
A small chew of the real tobacco tucked away
in the cheek gives men the tobacco satisfaction they want.
A gentleman's chew—it cuts down grinding and spitting and there's no unwieldy wad to roll around in your mouth or to plug out the cheek.
Give W-B CUT Chewing the quality test and learn what tobacco satisfaction is.
